

Tiny Stitches November Newsletter

Undoubtedly, you either watched this happen last night or heard about it today. It has been a bit since the boys of summer managed to bring it home to Atlanta. What fun to watch their joy as they see all of their work pay off. As our world throws orange and yellow and rust hues at us and the temperatures cool, we turn to a season of thanks and gratitude. On a normal year, we would gather together and break bread chatting with other stitchers from varying counties, but yet again, we will hold off. Please always know that the work of your hands is so very appreciated and you are thought of often. The babies and moms are the winners of all of the hard work put in.

December Needs:

- Boy and Girl changing pads
- Girl sleep sacks
- Girl quilts
- Girl lap-front shirts
- Boy receiving blankets
- Boy gowns

Request --especially for quilt makers or changing pad makers. Please make sure that the front and back sides of these reflect the gender you are sewing for. We have been receiving some of both where it is distinctly a boy quilt or changing pad and on the back it has pink, purple or heart and flowers. Why does this matter? Well, as a whole, girls are more fun to sew for. The fabric is generally cuter and more abundant. Simply put, we tend to sew more girl items than boy items. So, we hate to see a boy item get put into the girl pile, when they are at a premium. As a general rule, TS sees the colors pink and purple as girl colors; hearts and flowers as well. Thank you for your help in this. (also this is not to discourage you from sewing girls items--we need those too!)
