PATHWAYS2LIFE.ORG PRIVACY POLICY

This Privacy Policy governs the use and handling of personal information submitted at the website at www.pathways2life.org (the “Site”). As used in this policy, “we/us” refers to P2L, Inc.

Scope and Terms Used

This Privacy Policy applies only to the activities of P2L, Inc. on the Site, and not to any offline activities. As used in this Privacy Policy, “personal information” means information that may be used to identify a specific individual, such as name, e-mail address, phone number or credit card number. “Aggregate information” refers to combined demographic information which has been derived from personal information but which cannot be used to identify any individual.

Information We Collect and How We Use It

You can visit the Site and see what we do there without providing personal information. However, to access certain features, you will need to provide personal information. We use the personal information you provide only for purposes consistent with the reason you provide it such as in order to respond to your requests for information made over the Site. In particular:

- Donations. Where you make a donation to P2L, Inc. via the online giving gateway on the Site, we receive your name, address and donation amount, but we do not receive your credit card number or other financial information about you from the payment gateway. We use this information to provide you with evidence of your donation for tax purposes.
- Discovery Groups. You may submit information in order to register for Discovery Groups via the Site. In such cases, we collect the student’s name and address, school attended and grade, as well as the phone number and email address of the applicable parent or guardian. We use this information in order to communicate with the parent or guardian regarding the Discovery Group.
- Contact Us. Where you submit queries or information to us via the “Contact Us” portion of the Site, we collect your name, email address and phone number, as well as your query. We use this information to respond to your query or fulfill your request.

Where you provide your email address to us via any of the interfaces listed above, in addition to the uses described above, we may use this information to communicate with you about our programs or other items we believe may interest you. You are always permitted to opt-out of any such messages in the future (please see below regarding your choices in our use of your information).

We may also use your personal information to help us develop new services, to verify your identity, to communicate with you about your queries, to investigate or settle inquiries or disputes, and to customize your experience with our organization and our website.

Non-personal Information:

We may collect non-personal information such as your Internet browser type, operating system, and the IP address of the website from which you are linked to our website. We use this information to help us tailor our website in a manner to better match your computer settings, interests and preferences.

What Are Cookies and How Does the Site Use Them?

Cookies are small text files stored by your browser that allow us to learn more information about your visit or use of our website. We may also use cookies to track patterns on our website to help us improve visitor or customer experience.

Most browsers automatically accept cookies. To learn more about cookies, including how to refuse cookies on your computer, review the information on cookies published by the provider of the browser you are using to access the Site.

Do Not Track Signals

Some web browsers may transmit “do-not-track” signals to the sites with which the user communicates. Because of differences in how web browsers incorporate and activate this feature, it is not always clear whether users intend for these signals to be transmitted, or whether they even are aware of them. There currently is disagreement, including among participants in the leading internet standards-setting organization, concerning what, if anything, websites should do when they receive such signals.

The Site currently does not take action in response to these signals. If and when a final standard is established and accepted, we will reassess how to respond to these signals.

Your Choices In How We Use Your Personal Information

If you submit your email address or other contact information to the Site, you may receive messages from us regarding the Site or related programs and services. You have the choice of whether to continue receiving any promotional emails from the Site. Each promotional email you receive from us will provide you a specific opt-out mechanism to allow you to unsubscribe from receipt of these promotional e-mails. Please allow us several days in order to process your opt-out requests.

Our Sharing of Your Information

We will not sell, rent or share your personal information with third parties without your permission, except as necessary or appropriate to (i) carry out transactions such as donations that you make on the Site, (ii) respond to your requests or answer your inquiries, (iii) comply with any applicable law, court order or other judicial process, or to protect our company, the Site or its users from liability, loss or harm. We may also collect and share aggregate website statistical information (such as sales, traffic patterns or related information) with third parties, but no such aggregate information will contain information that could be used to identify you.

We may occasionally hire contractors to provide certain services on its behalf, including our donation payment gateway service and/or information processing. These contractors are required to maintain the confidentiality of the information and are restricted from using the information for any purposes other than those authorized by us.

How We Protect Your Information

We employ and maintain technology and security measures designed to protect your personal information. When you submit sensitive information to us via the payment gateway, such as credit card information, that information is subject to a variety of protections provided by our third party payment gateway provider, both on-line and off-line, including password-protected systems, firewalls and secure sockets layer (SSL) encryption technology. However, no data transmission over the Internet can be guaranteed as 100% secure. As a result, while we strive to protect your personal information, we cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us or receive from us. Please note that we are not responsible for any loss or disclosure of your information by any third parties, including our payment gateway provider.

Children's Privacy

The Site is not intended for use by minors or children under 13. We ask that children under the age of 13 do not use the Site and do not submit any personal information to us.

Contact Us

If you have any questions or comments about this Privacy Policy or your personal information, you may contact us at privacy@pathways2life.org.

Your Acceptance of Our Privacy Policy

By using the Site, you signify your acceptance of this Privacy Policy, and you adhere to the terms and conditions posted on the Site under "Terms." If you do not agree with these terms, please do not use our Site or submit any personal information.
